In the early morning when pleasant thoughts

drift through our minds, and time is motionless in eternity,

we indulge in flights of fancy.

Then coming with the stronger light the bitter taste of reality . . .

forces us to focus again on life . . .

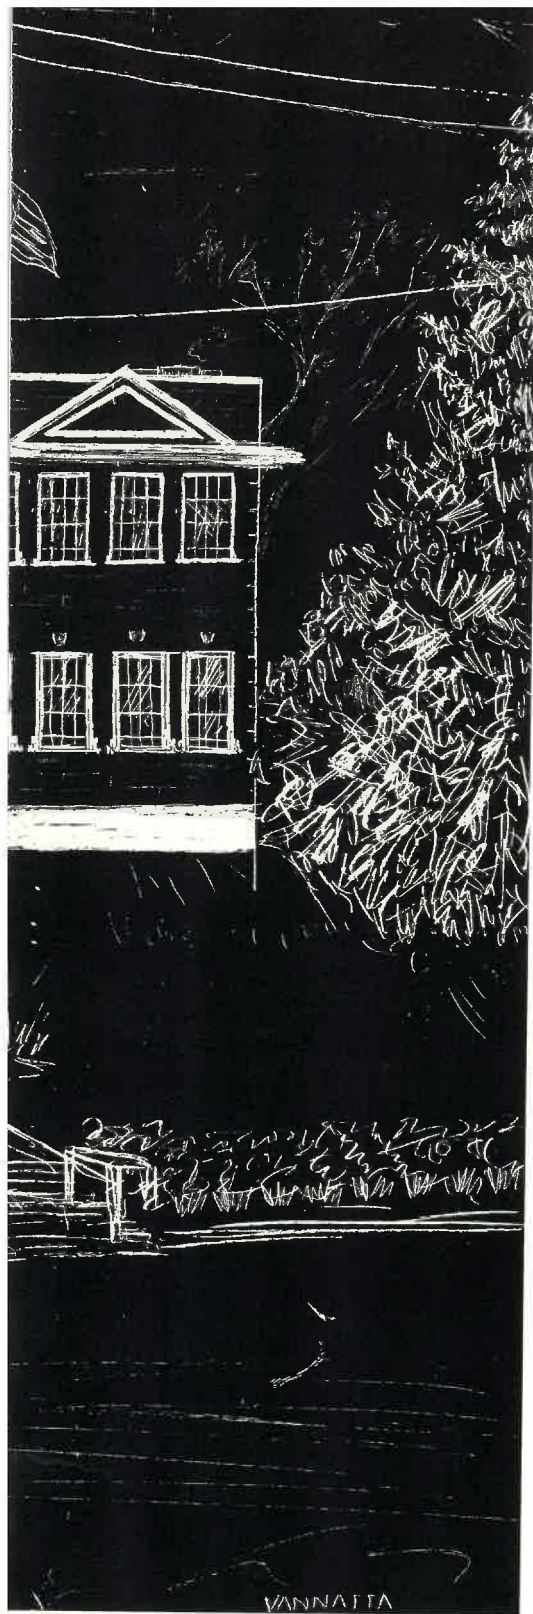

on today and tomorrow.

We Dedicate . . .

“O! This learning, what a thing it is.”

Shakespeare

Teachers—those forever patient, prodding disciples of education and learning. They have unknowingly become the mainstays in our lives. Their guidance has given us more than they realize, and even more than we consciously admit. We have learned countless things from teachers in the years past, and will continue to learn more and more for the rest of our lives. As we progress, each teacher adds a little more insight and perception to our learning.

Learning—knowledge of ourselves, of others, of everything we want to know about, and that ability to improve and strive forever forward. These are the gifts we receive from teachers. In return, we express our thanks by using our learning to create a better life for ourselves and others.

Now, as we stand ready to leave this vital fragment of our lives behind, we find it necessary to thank those who have taught us so much in preparation for life, in yet another way. We hope that through the dedication of this yearbook to all teachers, here and everywhere, we can truthfully express our appreciation for their dedication to us.

Thank you,

The Seniors 1969

The man who guides us all—

Principal

Mr. Sullivan

October 2, 1968

Class of 1969:

As I write this at the beginning of your Senior year, I look forward to a very pleasant year with the Class of 1969 leading the way for our school.

As I said at the beginning of school, the type and quality of school we have depends to a large extent on the type and quality of students in the Senior Class. Yours is a class of fine young people and I know that you will lead us through a productive and pleasant school year.

My best wishes for success to all of our class members after graduation.

As we have been a bridge for others, so too have others been a bridge for us.
Dag Hammarskjöld

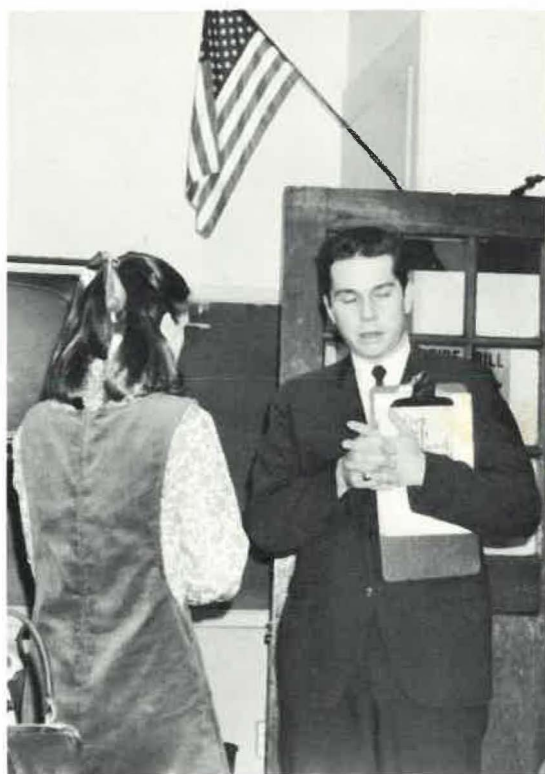

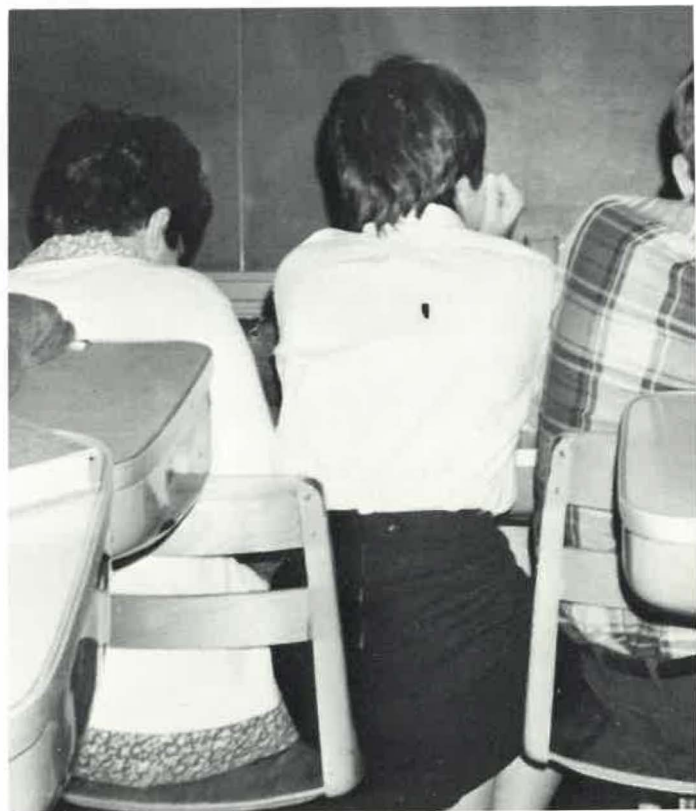

Visitors at N.H.S. would soon become accustomed to the everyday routine shown in the next six pages. No words are used to explain the pictures; most of them explain themselves. We hope to show that there is more to school than just grades, clubs, and sports. Therefore, we have entitled this section Scholastics–Student life.

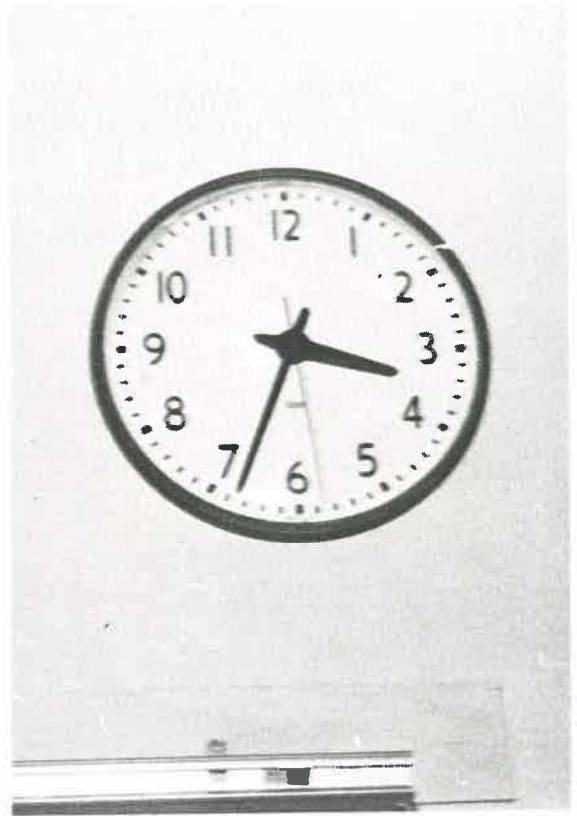

The court is bare; the muddy field silent

The game is over

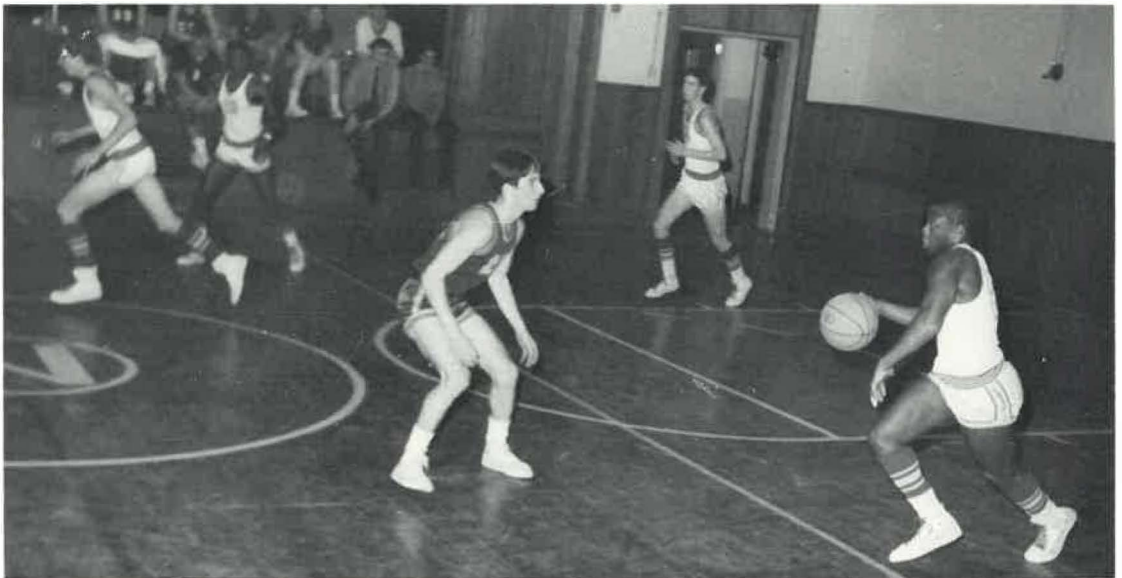

The pain, sweat, tears, and blood are forgotten.
Time clocks have stopped;

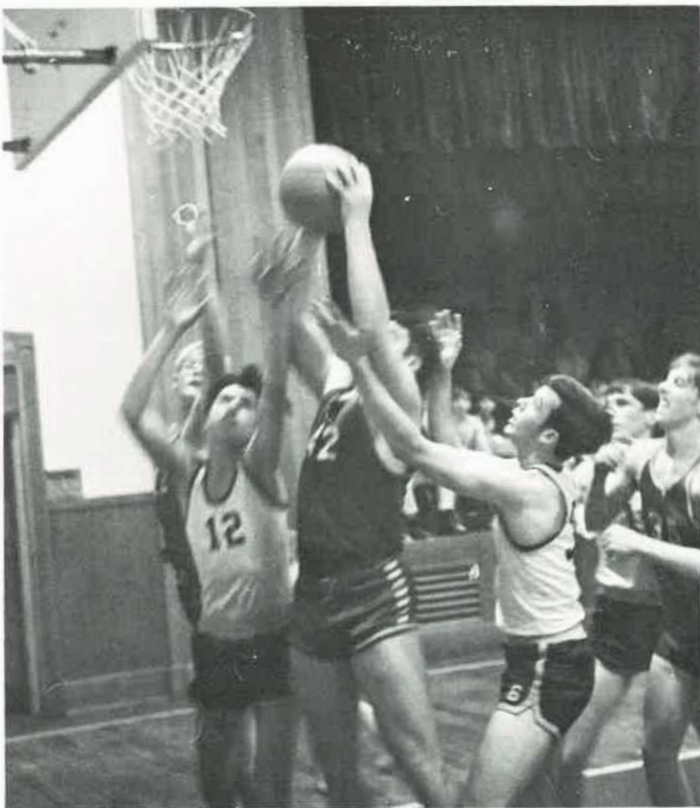

Whistles are quiet.
Striped socks, track shoes, and uniforms heaped in a corner.

The season is over,
but something lingers in our memories:

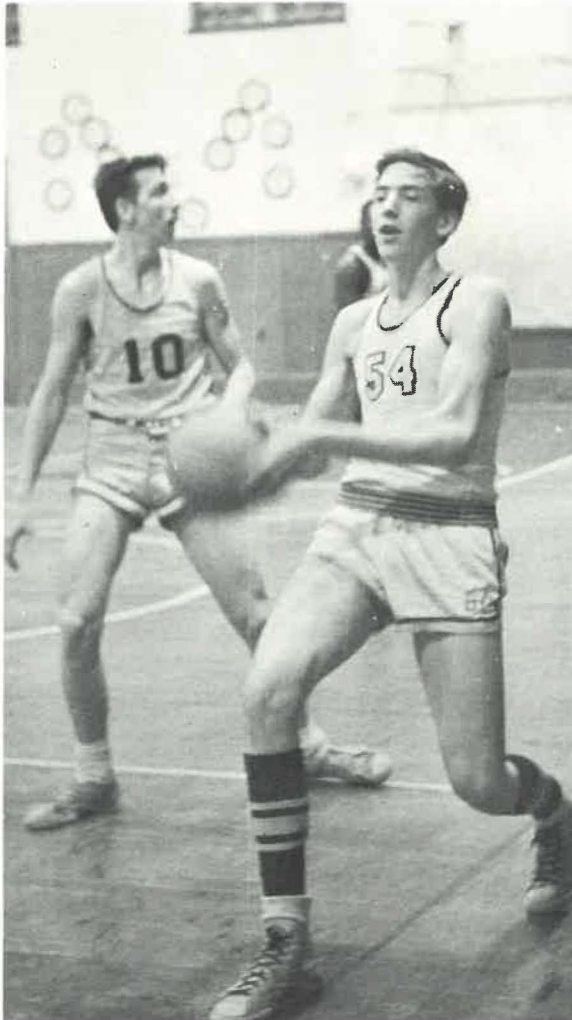

the urge to win, pride, confidence, spirit courage . . . these, and more . . .

Bus trips, cheers, referees, umpires, plays, signals,

time-out, foulshots, goals,
clippings, trophies, scores, homeruns . . .

And most of all, sportsmanship, pride in the game well played,

won or lost

In the beginning,
we were guided by the helping hands of parents and teachers

We grew.
We were taught our ABC's;

We played children's games;

We asked a thousand questions

We laughed; and cried.

With games and alphabets behind us,
we are still asking questions,

still laughing and crying.

Now our growth is just beginning

Once having been young

Four years have passed—wonderful, exciting, courageous years.

Valedictory

We, the class of 1969, would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their cooperation and support through our school years.

Our thanks goes out especially to our advisors who have spent so much of their spare time and their effort with us through the past four years. Mrs. Henke and Mr. Ludwick, we take this, one of our last opportunities, to extend a formal thank you for all your guidance, assistance and patience.

We could also like to thank Mr. White and Miss Vollmers for their very patient and persistent counseling with our yearbook.

Finally, we would like to express our gratitude to the faculty and Mr. Sullivan who have helped us through this preliminary learning process and prepared us for the adult world in which we will soon be living.

Our deepest appreciation to all those who have helped us through our formative years.
