Compliments of Bob and Helen Dexter

I finally made it!

Now we can go to college.

The line-up.

Now, off to the parties.

Back to back we face each other.

I'm number one.

But when you get to college . . .

Dorothy Stockheimer Opening Speaker.

"It is now time to move forward to that higher stage of accomplishment, to put into practice those things which we have learned. We are living in a time when it is important for each person, from the youngest to the oldest, to share his talents and ideas with those around him."

Maureen Dexter, class president, presented the gifts. The first gift was a painting of Lake Huntington, painted by Mary Martin. It is presently mounted in the front hall opposite the cafeteria. The second gift, a magazine rack, is being enjoyed by students and faculty alike, in the library.

Melodye Smith third speaker opened with:
"Yesterday is but a dream,
And tomorrow is only a vision:
But today well-lived,
Makes every yesterday a dream of happiness,
And every tomorrow a vision of hope."

Sanskrit

Closed with:

"The noontide is upon us and our half waking has turned to a fuller day, and we must part. If in the twilight memory we should meet once more, we shall speak again together and you shall sing to me a deeper song, And if our hands meet in another dream we shall build another tower in the sky."

Dear Seniors,

The quality of life for an American Citizen is threatened by an array of powerful forces--international conflict, environmental decay, mistrust, and tension.

Competent citizenship in a Democracy is dependent on a citizen's familiarity with basic concepts of government, his literacy, and his ability to govern himself.

If one is to forge new unities out of issues that divide us today, it is imperative that human relations be developed in conjunction with intellectual ability, emotional maturity, as well as the fusion of facts and skills.

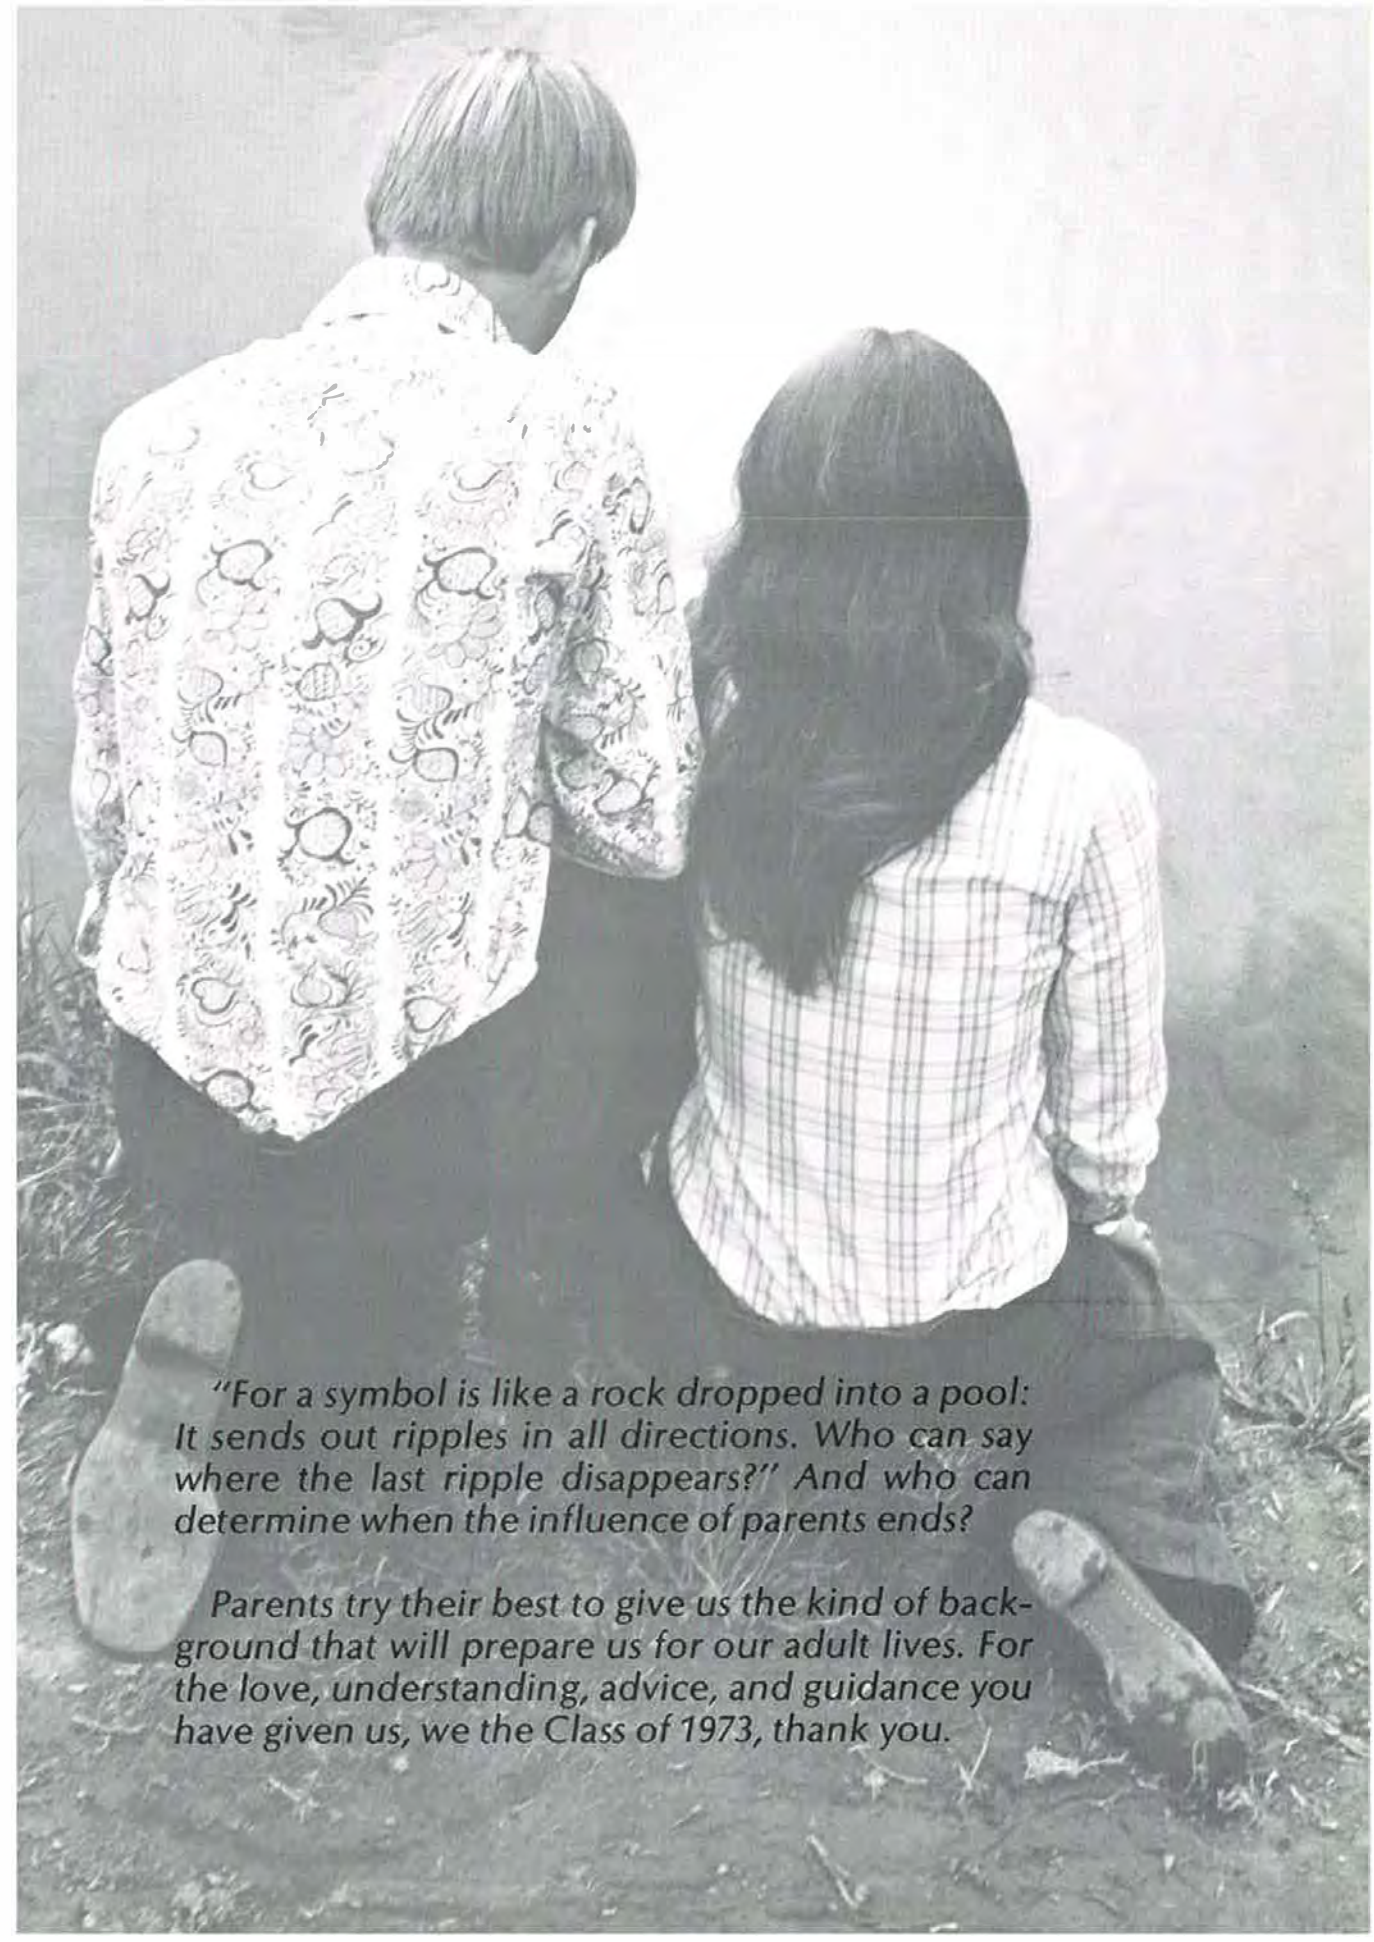

As today's youth you must prepare to serve as tomorrow's decision makers. Therefore, it is necessary for you, the youth of today, to dynamically use your skills, intelligence, talents, emotional maturity, and literacy for the betterment and enrichment of mankind in all areas, and in particular the area of human relations.

I believe as today's citizens it is your obligation to meet the challenge of today with a promise, a purpose, and a commitment through your kinetic leadership.

We wish you well, with pride in your present accomplishments, and with friendship wish for you the satisfaction and pleasure of accomplishment and the necessary inspiration for dedicated service to your fellow man.

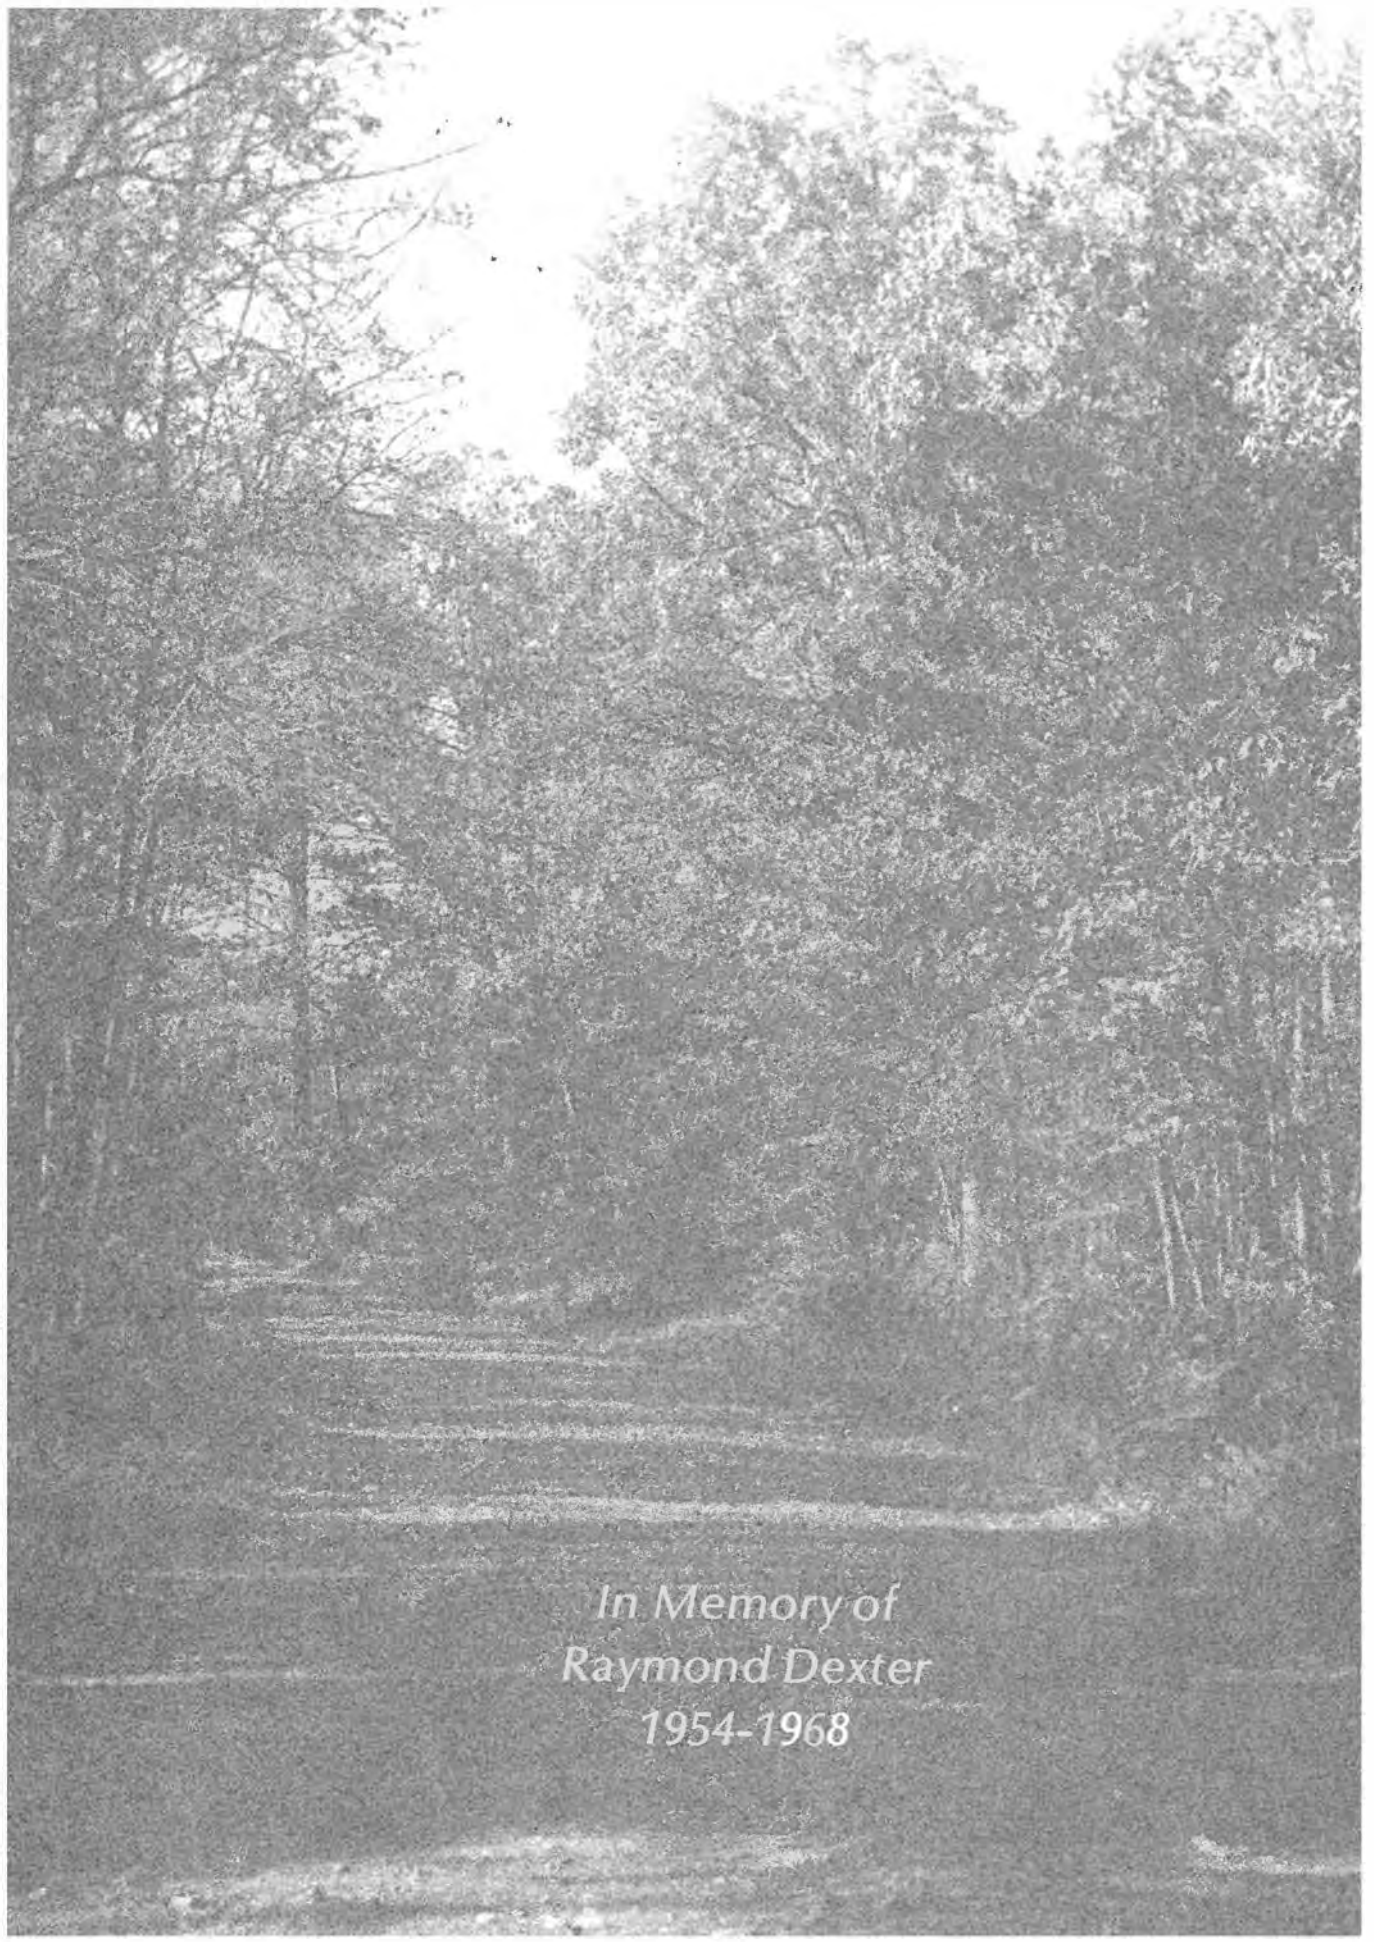

Finally, may the vocation of all of you be the exercise of your free will with rational purpose, and may you responsibly spread an epidemic of cherished high standards.

Cordially,
J. Kilker

*"For a symbol is like a rock dropped into a pool:
It sends out ripples in all directions. Who can say where the last ripple disappears?" And who can determine when the influence of parents ends?*

Parents try their best to give us the kind of background that will prepare us for our adult lives. For the love, understanding, advice, and guidance you have given us, we the Class of 1973, thank you.
